The Speech In Full

"The peace treaty, following the World War, recognized more fully than ever before the principle of nationality, under the caption, "Self-determination." Accordingly, the nations of Esthonia, Latvia, Lithuania, Czecho-Slovakia, Jugo-Slavia and Albania, have been established and Finland and Poland restored to nationhood. For the most part, these nations have been parts of Russia, Germany or Austria-Hungary for many generations, but their populations had retained their languages and customs and kept alive their national aspirations while dominated by other races.

"The revived and intensified national spirit is now expressing itself in certain unfortunate ways because of the fear and jealously of neighbors, which leads to the maintenance of unnecessarily large armies. But this does not necessarily spell 'militarism' and a closer observation and analysis of their national ambitions leads one to find in their educational programs, a more complete revelation of the spirit of these new nations.

"The expression of national egotism among the re-constructed nations of Europe has been intensified because of the fear and jealousy of their

PLAN A BIG MAT CARD FOR JULY 4

LEADING HEAVYWEIGHTS MAY BE BROUGHT HERE

125 UNDERWRITE PLAN

American Legion Sponsoring Affair—May be Held at Fairgrounds—Many Favor Plan

Prospects look bright for the staging of a big heavy-weight wrestling card between two of the best men in the game to be held in Maryville on July 4. The affair is being sponsored by the James Edward Gray Post of the American Legion with other Legion Posts of the county co-operating, and will probably be staged on an outdoor mat at the fairgrounds.

The committee is now in communication with Joe "Toots" Mondt, Joe Stecher, Daviscourt, Jimmie Londos, John Pesek and others of similar caliber. The main go of the proposed card will be between two outstanding heavyweights with preliminaries by middleweights and lightweights.

The committee estimate the cost of such a wrestling carnival as about $2,000 and have asked wrestling fans in Maryville and Nodaway County to underwrite the plan. This afternoon 125 men had agreed to shoulder a portion of the financial responsibility. If any profit is made from venture it will go towards a sinking fund for a Nodaway County community house. Several Legion posts of the county have assured their co-operation and assistance. Within the next few days more definite plans will be ready to announce.

Luncheon Last Night.

Before the bout last night a luncheon was held at the Linville Hotel. About twenty-five wrestling fans from over the county, including representatives from the Ravenwood, Hopkins, and Graham American Legion Posts were in attendance.

Two questions of major interest were discussed, the plan to stage a high class heavy weight wrestling carnival here on July 4, and the possibility of erecting a community house in Maryville for all civic, patriotic and other organizations of Nodaway County. L. M. Eek, a member of the local post, explained the building plans for a recreation center. Ed Gray spoke of the plans of the Legion to sponsor the Fourth of July wrestling bout. Dr. D. J. Thomas spoke on the wrestling carnival and Roy A. Kinnaird voiced his favor of the building plans and the proposed wrestling show next month.

Barackman Wins.

Mervin Barackman, who made short work of Johnny Bass on the mat here a few weeks ago, showed his superiority over Indian Lou Imm at the Armory last night by pinning the St. Joseph lad to the mat in straight falls. The first fall came in 27 minutes and 35 seconds, brought about by a straight over body scissors and a double wrist lock. The second fall came in 31 minutes and 10 seconds when the Indian found himself in a body scissors and arm lock and took the count.

Barackman was on the offensive all of the time. He worked constantly from the first nod of the referee until he gained a fall. Only twice was he in danger and then for only a short time. Imm's long suit was a toe hold but he lidn't seem to make it hold.

In the second round the Sheridan boy had things all his own way, toying with the Indian lad until he saw fit to pin him to the mat. He permitted Imm to take the offensive but the Indian had little luck in securing any dangerous holds. After a half hour's sparring Barackman waded in and made quick work of his opponent. The Indian weighed about 172 pounds and Barackman weighed in at about 160.

In the preliminary "Red" Roelofson gained a fall from "Pugs" Edwards in 23 minutes with a headlock. For amateurs they showed good speed and Roelofson, although he won the fall was much nearer worn out than Edwards.

She resided on the Reaksecker farm, southwest of Maryville, until four years ago last May when she moved to Oregon City. Lester Reaksecker visited his mother for two weeks in April. Mr. Reaksecker has been dead for more than twenty-one years. One sister, Mrs. John Williams of Onida, S. Dak., and two brothers also survive. A son, Warren Reaksecker, died in an overseas hospital November 30, 1918, of injuries received the previous September in the World War.

Will Bury U. S. Marine Officer in the Orient

Lieut. Col. Ellis Met an Unexplainable Death on the Caroline Islands, May 12

Tokio, June 5—The body of Lieut. Col. Earl H. Ellis, distinguished officer of the United States marine corp, who came to an unexplainable death in the Caroline Islands on May 12, will not be sent back to the United States for burial, according to notification received by the American embassy here today from the foreign office. Captain Lyman Cotten, American naval attache, was notified that the body could not be shipped because of the climatic conditions and the length of time that would be required to reach its destination. There are no embalming facilities in the islands. Consequently Colonel Ellis will be buried where he came to his untimely death.

Washington, June 5. — Announcement in Tokio that the body of Lieut. Col. Earl H. Ellis would be buried in the Caroline Islands, where he met his unexplainable death, only served to deepen the mystery of his untimely end. Although nearly a month has passed since the distinguished marine met his death on the "forbidden islands," that are under Japanese mandates, no word as to the cause of his death has been received. First reports said that he had been accidentally killed, but this had neither been confirmed or denied, despite cable requests from Washington for information.

Brown, a close personal friend of Harding, will leave for St. Louis tonight as an advance representative of the party and make arrangements for speeches, trains and routes. All along the way he will precede the Presidential party by two or three days. The party will consist of about fifteen members including Mrs. Harding, and Secretaries Wallace, Hoover, and Work. They plan to leave Washington on the afternoon of June 20 for St. Louis, where Harding's first formal address will be made.

SENIOR CLASS PLAY WAS WELL GIVEN

WAS FAR SUPERIOR TO AVERAGE AMATEUR PLAY

ALL PARTS FITTED WELL

Every Member of Cast Performed Remarkably Well—No Part Was Artificial

Far and away above the average amateur production, "Trelawney of the Wells" played to an appreciating audience last night. In the usual run of school plays, artificiality is especially noticeable—the cast usually forget to be themselves and assumes too many characteristics with which they are unfitted for. But not so with "Trelawney of the Wells" as played by the College Seniors last night. Every member of the cast fitted his or her particular part in such a way as to insure success.

Probably to Miss Blanche H. Dow of the dramatics department of the College is due, to a large measure at least, the success of last night's production. Miss Dow has been drilling the cast for the past several weeks, paying attention to every minute detail of the two-hour production. So each one of the 1000 persons who saw "Trelawney of the Wells" last night, should know of Miss Dow and her work with this play.

Setting out stars in a play is a hard task and especially when each member of the cast played his or her part especially well. Of course, there were minor parts in last night's play and so it could not be said that any of these characters were the stars of the play. Then, the persons playing leading roles performed with such naturalness, enthusiasm and energy that no attempt is made to set apart three or four persons and call them the stars of the play.

Mildred Shinabargar, William DeVore, Carl Bose and O'Dwyer carried their parts especially well. Of course, they were not given the opportunity to say much and do much but nevertheless they did exceptionally well in the parts assigned.

Lucile Brumbaugh, as Rose Trelawney, showed wonderful sympathy with a true, human character. Her changes of emotion would do credit to one who has been in professional productions for many years. So with Elvira Ward, as Imogene Parrott, Thelma Eaton, as Mrs. Telfar, and Marie Elmore, as Clara De Foenix, all of them carried their parts wonderfully well.

Anna Mae Gillis, as a typical blushing bride, put on all of the exterior sweetness and fondness for the newly made husband, that persons in the audience were continually laughing, probably recalling some of their own experiences after the "I will" had been said. Charles Elmore was a good husband, too, and it seemed as if he loved his wife as much as she did him.

John England was funny, good and funny. He had a good part, and it fitted him well. In his after dinner speech, Leston Webb showed qualities of the one who forgets his lines, while his friends think he is a good fellow anyway, and applaud him regardless of what he says. He was especially good in this scene.

Howard Leech was a fine old man, and his constant call for a "cheer" (chair) brought peals of laughter from the audience. All because the audience appreciated the old man's predicament and was feeling with him all the while—that's real acting.

Marie Landfather was a typical old-maid aunt. She was so prim and precise that nothing could be out of place in the room without her fixing it aright again. Her formality was quite cleverly played and it even made persons in the audience sit up a little straighter and even use the vanity case, if no one was looking.

Harold Houchens, as Tom Wrench the playwright, did exactly what he should have done under the circumstances. His story of Life was good what was seen of it. Daniel Hunt and Fred Connor were both well-fitted to their parts and added much to the zest of the comedy.

C. D. Kutschinski directed the orchestra which played especially enjoyable numbers between the acts.

All in all, it was a high-class play. Probably a little too long for the good of the audience, but at the same time all went away realizing that they had seen a well-drilled, well-acted and wonderfully interpreted stage production.

At the close of the play, Miss Ava Marie Landfather presented the vice-president of the junior class, Miss Florence McDonald, with a cane containing eleven numeral rings. In 1913, the graduating class of the College started the tradition of presenting to the junior class a cane with the class numeral. This cane, together with the numeral rings, has been handed down to the junior class by the president of the seniors.

10 TEACHERS LEAVE OKLAHOMA A. & M.

STRIFE IN STATE SCHOOL OVER NEW PRESIDENT

BOARD CONFERS TODAY

Will Act Upon Resignation from Three Deans and Three Doctors and Others

Stillwater, Okla., June 5—Three members of the state board of agriculture went into conference here this morning with President Wilson, newly installed president of the Oklahoma Agricultural and Mechanical College, and are expected to act upon the resignations of three doctors and three deans, which had been presented to the president. The board of agriculture, including all appointive members, excepting John Whitehurst, president of the board, who was left behind, went into session here this morning. Whitehurst declined to give assent to adjourning the session to the college town. This action was proceeded by many stormy sessions of the board in which the Wilsonites were victorious.

Oklahoma City, Okla., June 5—The exodus of members of the faculty of Oklahoma Agricultural and Mechanical college, forecast yesterday, has begun. One professor, after George Wilson, Farmer-Labor League leader, under military escort, assumed the presidency of the college, said: "I do not see how any self-respecting teacher could remain on his faculty."

Resignations of ten of the leading members of the faculty were filed this afternoon with the state board of agriculture. All the teachers announced they were leaving the college because they could not serve under Wilson. The letters of resignation had been placed in the hands of Dr. J. B. Eskridge, retiring president, to be presented to the board of agriculture if Wilson took office.

Three Deans Quit

Those resigning were:

Dr. O. T. Dowell, director of the experiment station; J. T. Guberlet, parisitechologist; Dr. J. A. Tolman, head of the foreign language department; H. F. Holtzclaw, dean of commerce and marketing; Dr. W. B. Parks, head of the chemistry department; W. B. Powell, professor of English; Ella Nora Miller, dean of home economics; Mary C. Brogdon, dean of women; Margaret S. Sterns, domestic science instructor, and C. M. Geren, professor of architecture.

Others resigning were Earl C. Albright, secretary to the president, and R. J. Pederson, stenographer to the president.

The board permanently relieved M. J. Otey as financial secretary of the college. Otey has been under suspension for more than six months while an audit of his books has been in progress. Charges that Otey was at least $100,000 short in his accounts were made by ex-President Eskridge in injunction proceedings last week seeking to prevent Wilson from taking office until July 1. Eskridge contended that if Wilson were permitted to take control before July 1 the audit of the school accounts would be suppressed.

Tank Train Derailed, Gasoline Car Explodes

Guthrie, Okla., June 5—A Santa Fe southbound freight train loaded with oil cars, jumped the track on the Cimmarron River bridge here this morning and a tank car of gasoline exploded tearing up most of the bridge. The oil cars caught fire and the bridge was practically consumed. Burning oil run down the river and caught fire to a $50,000 wagon bridge destroying the structure. No trainmen were injured. The estimated loss is a quarter million.

The Rev. and Mrs. D. W. Conner of Bridgewater, Ia., motored here this morning to spend the day with their daughter, Mrs. W. E. Goforth, and their granddaughter, Mrs. Don Heflin.

HARDING PRAISES FRATERNAL IDEALS

SPEAKING BEFORE THE SHRINERS' CONVENTION TODAY.

WOULD ELIMINATE WAR

President Pleads for Same Spirit Among Nations—Flays the Spirit of Lawless Fraternities.

Washington, June 5.—A wish that the spirit of fraternity, as embodied in thought in the "lodges" of America, might be transplanted into all of the nations of the world was uttered today by President Harding in his address of welcome to the Imperial Council of Shriners at their convention here.

"I wish somehow," said the President "that we could have fraternity among the nations as is taught in America among men. I do not mean the secret grip or the pass-word, which affords an appealing mysterious realm, but the insistent demand for just dealing, protection of the rights of others, and the ideal of brotherhood as recited in the Golden Rule and the right relations which every man knows his God approves. Under such a reign of fraternal spirit cruel human warfare would never come again."

The President wore a red fez of the Shrine as he spoke and was surrounded by the council in gay and colorful trappings. His hearers were limited to those of the Imperial Council meeting in a downtown theatre. He had just finished reviewing 250,000 Shriners in one of the most colorful and largest parades ever staged upon historic Pennsylvania Avenue.

Without mentioning names but the significance not being lost upon his hearers, the President declared that fraternities must be just and remain within the bonds of the law.

"Secret fraternity is one thing," he said, "and secret consipracy is another. I will have said enough when I say that men lose their right to fraternity when they transgress the law of the land.

"I like the high purposed fraternity because it is our assurance against menacing organizations. In the very naturalness of association men are banded together for mischief to exert misguided ideals, to give vent to unreasonable malice and undermine our institutions. This isn't fraternity, it is conspiracy, it is organized destruction. This is not brotherhood, it is the discord of loyalty and danger to the Republic. But so long as 20 million Americans are teaching loyalty to the flag, the cherishment of our institutions, and due regard for constitutional authority and love of liberty under the law, we may be assured that our future is secure."

Washington, June 5—What is believed to be a record number of heat prostrations at one event, were cared for here today when the police estimated at 1:30 o'clock this afternoon that more than 350 persons attending the Shrine festivities had been treated throughout the city. The heat was terrific. Most of those effected were in the uncovered stands that lined Pennsylvania Avenue or were in the crowd of thousands that milled along the avenue during the parade.

What of America?

Shall This Government Live or Die?

I would invoke those who fill the seats of justice, and all who minister at its altar, that they execute the wholesome and necessary severity of the law.—Daniel Webster.

XLVI

The Only Material of Which a Nation Ever Can Be Made

The outstanding fact in the history of the evolution of our government is that its own necessities and those of the American people have tended steadily to make us a nation. Nationality, through whatever storms and stresses, and whether we liked it or not, has been the inevitable goal toward which government and people have moved.

The "league of firm friendship" of the Confederation gave way under those necessities to the "compact"—as many believed it to be—of the Constitution. The compact theory, after long test, was found to be a defective one. Under it the Union was a house divided against itself. After seventy-two years of compromises it broke down, and a terrible civil war settled it for all time that the Constitution was not a compact but the supreme national law of an indestructible union of indestructible states.

This nationality is the heritage which these present generations have received from those who, through those long years of compromise, misunderstanding and final conflict, fought the battles of nationality and triumphed over provincialism and disunion. We now are a nation, territorially, politically and even physically, for we have seen that the continent now is held together by those bonds of communication that are stronger to bind than distance is to separate. But nationality is not a thing wholly territorial, political or physical in its nature. Nationality is a mental and a spiritual condition as well. Nationality cannot exist where the people, even though living together under the same political system, are not one people in thought and aspiration. We have seen the attempt in Europe, in recent years, to make nations simply by drawing boundary lines around aggregations of inhabitants. Those attempts have not been successful, because, no matter what treaties may say, nations are made out of only one material, and that is human beings united in mind, with common interests, common history, a uniform political training and with a spiritual bond stronger than that of the strongest legal sanction.

The reason why it has been impossible to make nations in Europe by the means its diplomats have employed is because the mixed populations of the continent do not furnish these essential elements of nationality. If these processes have failed there they will fail here. American can be a nation only so long as the human material out of which it is made remains one people. Our present danger is that it will not so remain. Our material necessities have caused us in recent decades to admit into our system vast accretions of human material not readily malleable under nationalistic processes. Nor have we done our best to make those processes effective upon them. We have allowed alien peoples to come here, to settle in colonies in our cities, to retain their own language, their racial customs and political animosities and to become, in effect, breeding centers of un-American doctrines.

These people do not know the meaning of liberty. No people can know it who know only its deliverances and not its obligations. To them liberty is freedom from restraints of law and the control of social forces that are basis of civilization itself. It is to these elements in our population that we trace the propogation of doctrines directed openly and bodily to the overthrow and destruction of the American government. The paid agitators and agents of foreign anarchy, working upon the inflammable material we have allowed to accumulate in our population, have started the same fires that now are ravaging great areas of Europe. If America is to escape the fate of Europe these fires must be put out. They can be put out only by Americans It is their house that is threatened. It is their nation, their laws and their dearly bought institutions of free government that are marked for destruction by these enemies of all government. Only the spirit and devotion of those earlier Americans who flew to arms when the village bells of Middlesex rang out their midnight warning that the British were coming can save America today from the invaidng forces of these new enemies of freedom.

Let us as Americans remember the definition of nationality our history has taught us. A nation is one people. We can be a naftion on these terms, and upon no other. Let it be remembered that they were Americans who differed over the theory of the Constitution, and whose differences all but cost us our nationality. Americans almost became twopeoples. If Americans could so nearly become two, how much greater is the danger to their nationality when division is threatened by great sections of our population who are not Americans? America shelters them, America gives them her freedom, her opportunities, her prosperity, but no man is an American in the true meaning of nationality, whether native or alien born, whether rich or poor, powerful or humble, whose mind and heart have not received the baptism of her spirit.

No man is an American who does not obey the law of his country, who does not faithfully discharge his every obligation of citizenship, who does not hold his representatives in government strictly to account, who does not jealously guard his civic rights from those forces, whether alien or domestic, that seek to despoil him of them or who by his indifference to or contempt for public affairs when put in the balance against his own, abandons his privilege of suffrage to the enemies of his country its laws and its institutions.

WOMEN DISAGREE ON JUNE AND DECEMBER ROMANCES

Syracuse, N. Y., June 5.—June and December romances:

Yes, says Mrs. Marta Wittowska Mallery, Syracuse prima donna, who before she retired from the operatic stage to wed was a favorite of the Chicago Grand Opera Company.

No, contends Mrs. Blanche Weaver Baxter, docente of the Syracuse Museum of Fine Arts.

Syracuse's society circles are debating the June and December romance problem today as a result of a statement by Edna Fortescue, English writer, who holds that the increasing number of such alliances is due to the fact that modern man is using the fire and enthusiasm of youth to make a place for himself in the world, preferring to wait until later to select a wife.

In this way men do not pick wives they will later tire of, it is argued, and attract young girls because of the respect the flapper has for the worldly man and because of the greater luxuries he can provide.

Mrs. Baxter, leader of those who strongly disapprove of the union of a young girl with a much older man, declares:

"The chances for domestic happiness are much less. I suppose I am old fashioned, but I often think that two young people, very nearly of an age, who are attracted to each other and marry, beginning life together, get the most out of the marriage relation."

Mrs. Mallery, for the others, answers:

"It is the man who has done something in life that the young woman of character seeks for a husband. Against his lost youth she sets what to her are greater advantages—the position he occupies, the respect he commands, the practical wisdom he can distill and the fact that, all things considered, he is more companionable than the callow youth of her own age.

"The girl may miss the romance of a youthful lover, but too often romance is short lived, and passion does not long survive poverty."

Mrs. Kate E. Knickerbocker, president of the Kanatenah Club, the leading women's society of the city, commented:

"Women in these days hold their age much better than do men. Today the woman of fifty doesn't look more than thirty-five, whereas the man of fifty looks all of it; and I think a woman makes a mistake where she marries a man much older than herself."

Mrs. Mary A. Phares and little granddaughter, Frances Phares, returned home this morning from a two weeks' visit with relatives in Decatur, Ill.

It is impossible to fully realize the joys of a good home without the conveniences that electricity makes possible—provides electricity that will sweep the carpets, churn the butter, heat the electric iron, wash the clothes, and make summer nights endurable with the cooling breezes from an electric fan.

It will pump the water from your well and give you running water in your home.

The Delco-Light users in Nodaway County, in voicing their sentiments of the Delco-Light, are of one accord: that it is such a potent factor in making their homes better that they would not part with it for any consideration.

This Week Designated as Better Homes Week

National Movement From June 4 to 10 is Warmly Endorsed by Government Officials.

"Better Homes in America" a nation-wide movement is the slogan over the United States for the week beginning yesterday and continuing until next Sunday. The movement is fostered by an organization with Vice-President Coolidge as the head of the Advisory Council, and with the heads of practically all the government departments and bureaus co-operating.

The objects of the association are as follows:

1. To show the advantages of thrift for home ownership. Only 48 per cent are home owners. Ownership encourages responsibility.

2. To overcome the present shortage of homes—America needs 800,000 homes.

3. To strengthen home life and make it attractive.

4. To assist and encourage homemakers and home builders. Ninety-two per cent of the women of America do their own home work.

5. To improve the home environment, thereby strengthening the child. To increase the efficiency of the wage earner of the house.

6. To stimulate sensible and valuable purchasing for home improvement.

7. To mobilize community pride for a common objective—Pride of Home.

The Better Homes movement grew out of suggestion made by President Harding in an address made in Akron, Ohio, in 1921, at a Better Homes demonstration prepared by the local women entirely of their own initiative. "I would like to see a demonstration of this sort in every town and city in the country," said the President. Under date of Feb. 5, 1923, President Harding sent the following letter to Secretary Hoover, of the Department of Commerce:

Dear Mr. Secretary:

I am glad to learn that the Better Homes Movement, under the direction of Mrs. Wm. Brown Meloney, in co-operation with the Department of Commerce is to again renew the demonstration which it held last October. The results then obtained in furtherance of the great desire of our people for better housing and better homes well warrants its repetition.

I know of no matter so intimately connected with the life of our people to which we can give greater devotion and service for fundamental improvement than the upbuilding not only of individual home ownership but in the actual improvement of our homes. Not only is there the primary consideration of advanced material comfort but the soundness of our social system and stability of our country are greatly enhanced by the development of love for a home and the creation of a home than can be loved.

Very truly yours,
WARREN G. HARDING.

Hon Herbet Hoover,
Secretary of Commerce.

220 in Penmanship Classes at College

Judging by its size, the penmanship class at the College seems to be one of the most popular subjects. So far, 220 students have signed up for penmanship, making it necessary to divide the class into four sections. Miss Minnie Keith is teaching these classes. Penmanship is now a requirement for the different teaching certificates and degrees. There were 150 in this class last summer.

MRS. BUTLER'S ACHES AND PAINS

Vanished After Using Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

W. Philadelphia, Pa.—"When I cleaned house last April I must have overlifted, for after that I had pains and aches all the time and was so discouraged. I could hardly do my own housework, and I could not carry a basket of groceries from the store nor walk even four or five squares without getting terrible pains in my back and abdomen and lower limbs. I went to visit a friend in Mt. Holly, N. J., and she said, 'Mrs. Butler, why don't you take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound?' My husband said that if it did her so much good for the same trouble, I should try it. So I have taken it and it is doing me good. Whenever I feel heavy or bad, it puts me right on my feet again. I am able to do my work with pleasure and am getting strong and stout. I still take the Vegetable Compound and Liver Pills, and am using Lydia E. Pinkham's Sanative Wash."—Mrs. CHARLES BUTLER, 1233 S. Hanson St., W. Phila., Pa.

First Convictions in Oil Mail Frauds

Dallas, June 5—The government won its first mail fraud conviction of using the mails for oil frauds today when D. H. Peeler and W. J. Chancellor, Dallas oil men were convicted upon grand jury indictments charging fradulent use of the United States mails. Sentence will be pronounced later in the day. But two witnesses were used by the government. One told of buying stock and in a very short time of receiving a ten per cent cash dividend and on the strength of that was induced to invest more extensively.

Iowa Farm Pupils' Grades are Best

Des Moines, Io., June 5—The students that stand highest in their high school classes in this State come from the farms, according to the results of a survey made by Professor Charles Deich, of Simpson College.

Professor Deich bases his report upon information from 316 high school principals, who supervise 6,000 high school pupils in this State.

Of the 316 honor students 217 live in the country.

Girls outnumber boy honor students there being 220 girls to 96 boys leading their classes. The feminine students also average higher grades than the boys. The young ladies averaged 95 per cent in eleven subjects while the boys could attain that average in only four subjects.

The blue-eyed, brown-haired types lead their fellow-students, the survey shows. Only five "carrot tops" were listed in the honor student rolls.

The ordinary American family led in the best pupil products. One hundred and eighteen of the students came from families of the third class. 41 from the fourth class and only 32 from the independently wealthy.

Earl Barmann returned Monday from Kansas City, where he and Mrs. Barmann motored last Friday. Mrs. Barmann is spending a few days at the home of a sister in Lawrence, Kan.

Late Telegraph News

Jefferson City, June 5—Attorney General Jesse W. Barrett has filed suits against eighty corporations which are delinquent in the payment of the corporation franchise tax. The suits were filed by special assistant attorney general Harry C. Wilson. Eighteen corporations were sued in Kansas City, thirty-eight in St. Louis, and twenty-four in other parts of the state. The amounts sued for range from $1,000 to $1 the smallest being against a corporation in Salem, Mo.

With the filing of these suits the attorney general said that all delinquent corporations have now been sued.

Jefferson City, Mo., June 5—The application of the Wabash Railway company to take over and operate the Missouri, Kansas and Texas branch line between Moberly, and Hannibal was heard by the Missouri Public Service commission. A decision will will be announced later. The Wabash company has agreed to take over the line of seventy miles on a ninety-nine year lease at an annual rental of $125,000. The companies have agreed on the terms but it needs the approval of commission.

Jefferson City, Mo., June 5—The state highway commission has authorized state highway engineer B. H. Piepmeier to remove all objectionable sign boards, direction boards and advertising signs on state highways which are not authorized by the commission. The action was taken following the filing of a suit by a ferry boat owner at Osage City, because a sign he has constructed on the state highway eight miles east of Jefferson City was removed by Piepmeier.

Jefferson City, Mo., June 5—The supreme court has decided that Housing Trusts or Three Per Cent Companies are lotteries and are not entitled to do business in Missouri. The companies already had been put out of business by the passage of the Whitecotton bill in recent legislature repealing the law under which the companies have been operating in Missouri since 1919.

St. Louis Primary Act Causes Delay

Bonus Election Put Off on Account St. Louis Co. Voters Must Be Registered First.

Jefferson City, June 5.—It will be impossible to hold the special election on July 10, for the purpose of voting $4,600,000 additional soldier bonus bonds to pay the remaining 25,500 bonus claims and the election will have to be postponed until some time in September, Attorney General Jesse W. Barrett held late yesterday.

The election, called last week by Governor Hyde, for July 10, will have to be held at a later date because of a new law, passed by the last legislature, providing registration of all voters in St. Louis county. This new act becomes effective June 25, and not sufficient time would elapse between that date and July 10 to prepare for and hold the registration in St. Louis county, Attorney General Barrett declared.

Chief among the features of the St. Louis county registration law, which prevents the election on July 10, is the provision that the judges of the election and registration must be named sixty days before the registration takes place.

A delegation of St. Louis county citizens called upon Governor Hyde while in St. Louis Sunday and stated that they thought it would be impossible to hold the election in that county. The governor called the attorney general late Sunday night, according to Attorney General Jesse W. Barrett and was advised by the attorney general that without the participation of St. Louis county in the election, the election throughout the entire state would be invalidated. The attorney general also advised the governor that St. Louis county could not participate in the election because of the new registration law.

Secretary of State Charles U. Becker was advised by the attorney general late today to cancel temporarily the contracts with the newspapers of the state for the publication of the announcement of the election. The law provides that these announcements of special election be published thirty days before the election is held.

Kellogg's Bran is Guaranteed to give relief BECAUSE IT IS ALL BRAN!

Relief from constipation, whether it be mild or chronic, will follow the regular, every-day eating of Kellogg's Bran. We have thousands of letters from former sufferers who tell us that the natural "bulk-action" of this wonderful cereal product has given relief they have not known for years. We guarantee that Kellogg's Bran will free the system from constipation because it is ALL BRAN—not a composition in which bran is added. If constipation is to be permanently relieved, you must eat ALL BRAN—that's why your physician will recommend Kellogg's for constipation.

Constipation creates toxic conditions which poison the blood and every organ of the body. It slows you down mentally and physically, and creates sick headaches, nausea, bad breath, pimples—finally, in many cases, leading to Bright's disease, diabetes and other dreaded illnesses. You must fight constipation with Kellogg's Bran regularly if you want health!

You'll say Kellogg's Bran is really delicious—it has a nut-like flavor that appeals to the most fastidious appetite. Eat it as a cereal, sprinkled on hot or cold cereals or cooked with hot cereals, allowing two tablespoonfuls of bran for each person. Be certain to eat at least two tablespoonfuls each day; as much with each meal in chronic cases. Kellogg's is delicious made into muffins, macaroons, raisin bread, griddle cakes. Recipes in every package. Kellogg's Bran is served by leading hotels, clubs and restaurants in individual packages. It is sold by all grocers.

Candy Shops Indicative.

"There are many little straws to indicate what is happening in a town, with regard to its growth and its people's average buying power," says Fred Kelly in The Nation's Business. "The city directory, telephone book and school census give a good idea each year of the rate of growth. And the stores know how readily people are parting with their money. To get a line on spending tendencies, I should rather have information from a cigar store or a candy shop than from a piano store. Each deals in luxuries, but the one selling small articles will more nearly keep pace from day to day with average people's average spending impulses."

The Shifting Clocks of Europe

Summer time, as daylight-saving during the summer is called abroad, should have widespread adoption. Since the repeal of our federal law for nation-wide daylight-saving, we have fallen into a situation where the observance of daylight saving is largely, outside of New England, a matter for local decision, and the results are varied.

Pretty much the same condition of affairs has come to pass abroad. There is summer time in England, Belgium, and parts of Italy. The rest of Italy and France have not put their clocks ahead. The result is that if a traveler leaves England for the Balkans, and tries to keep his watch with the time of the country through which he passes, he will have to adjust it five times.—The Nation's Business.

League of Nations Favors Opium Limit

Geneva, June 5—The League of Nations opium commission today unanimously adopted the American resolution limiting the production of opium to medicinal needs. The interpretation of "medicinal needs," was the source of much discussion.

Train Crash Kills 2 Knights Templar

Durand, Mich., June 5.—Five persons were killed and thirty were injured, ten of them seriously today when a special grand trunk train, carrying Knights Templar to a state convention at Flint, was wrecked. Two of the dead are Knights Templar and the others are the engineer, fireman and a newsboy. The baggage car rammed against the locomotive. None of the nine coaches left the track.

Signs of Good Times.

These were the recorded conditions in this country in March of this year:

Cotton consumption—the largest ever recorded;

Pig Iron production—the largest ever recorded;

Steel ingot production—the largest ever recorded;

Locomotive shipments—the largest ever known;

Unfilled orders for locomotives—the largest ever known;

Zinc production—the largest ever known;

Bituminous coal production — only twice exceeded.

Anthracite coal production — only once exceeded;

Retail sales in ten cent stores—the largest ever known;

Mail order sales—the largest ever known;

Car loadings — the highest ever known at this time of year;

Automobile and truck production, 346,000—far the greatest ever placed;

Residential construction—the largest ever known.—Julius H. Barnes in The Nation's Business.

The High Cost of Styles

According to Wm. A. Durgin of the Department of Commerce, in The Nation's Business, your morning's milk is being transported in 239 styles of can, only to be poured into sixty-odd shapes of milk bottles, fitted with 29 different sizes of paper cap; and the pistons of your automobile motor may be equipped with any one of 11,000 different sizes and types of piston ring.

A single manufacturer of bedsteads just before the war carried 901 designs; and one manufacturer of paper, up to a year or two ago, gloried in a line of over 2,000 varieties and brands; while in such a commodity as women's shoes, no one can state the full extent of variation. For a sample estimate, consider that feminine foot gear is manufactured in widths and sizes totaling a range of 196 items, that any given style may be produced in 10 different materials, giving 1,960 varieties for one style in all leathers, fabrics, sizes and widths; then contemplate the experts' enumerations of current styles, which range from 2,000 to 20,000 designs; and you arrive at a total of from 3,900,000 to 39,000,000 different shoes. Even if the fact is a mere million, it would seem sufficiently grotesque.

The New York and Missouri delegations were to caucus upon the question of supporting Howland or Buckley.

"The San Diego"

A Charming Fire-Safe Home of Brick and Tile Construction.

If you are planning to build, "The San Diego" will prove a most delightful home, and will guarantee the safety of your investment. In addition to the many essential advantages and economies of the enduring construction used, "The San Diego" provides the more sentimental values. The exterior design is decidedly beautiful and individual in character. The interior is planned to provide a full measure of home comforts and conveniences. It has four rooms on the first floor and two on the second, with the attached garage.

President Harding Reviews Shriners

Washington, June 5—Two hundred and fifty thousand nobles of the Mystic Shrine passed in review before Noble Warren G. Harding this morning in one of the greatest and most colorful parades ever witnessed on historic Pennsylvania Avenue.

For three solid hours wearers of the Red Fezes were to be seen from the Capital to the White House and by the Garden of Allah, where Jim McCandree, the order's imperial potentate held forth. One hundred and ten bands kept the Nobles in step, seventy-five oriental music numbers brought the breath of the "hot sands," sixty drum corps filled in between, and seventy-five glee clubs raised their vocies in praise of the Shrine, the President and the National Capital.

Golden West

Going via the Pacific Northwest, Returning From California via Colorado.

THE LOW COST OF THE TRIP WILL SURPRISE YOU.

It is an experience of a lifetime to become acquainted with the great storehouses of scenic, climatic, agricultural, industrial and other wealth in the Pacific Northwest and California.

In making such a trip, it is both natural and logical for one to select that route on which the most and the best of the astounding wonders in our fascinating West can be viewed from the car window.

To the end that Burlington patrons may reap the fullest possible measure of delight, benefit and inspiration which such a wonderful trip affords, schedules have been developed and perfected via two widely different routes so that the most of the best scenery is passed during daylight hours.

Through the combination of these two routes par excellence into one grand circle tour of our impressive and progressive West, you can travel several thousand miles, through a dozen great states, on one ticket. You can see practically every kind of scenery, every phase of topography, every variety of plant life, every species of animal life, every sort of mineral wealth, and every beauty of landscape that the entire American West affords.

Aside from the broadened vision which travel only can give, such a trip may take you to the land of your dreams, to a home in this wonderland of natural beauties, to an opportunity in this wonderland of natural wealth, with a future wide open.

Let me tell you more about it and let your home town railroad introduce you this summer.

Court on Inspection Trip to Monroe Twp.

The county court will make an inspection trip to Monroe township this afternoon for the purpose of fixing some kind of temporary bridges over a stream on a mail route out of the Skidmore post office. These bridges have been out since the flood last year. The intention of the court is to fix some temporary crossing at present as they have no money to put in a new bridge.

Judge E. T. Bailey of the county court said it takes so much money now to build a bridge. A river bridge of some 108 feet used to cost about $2,400 while a 60 foot bridge now would cost in the neighborhood of $3,000.

EDUCATION OF YOUTH WILL BRING PEACE

neighbors. This fear has led to the interference of the passage of goods from one country to another. They are not only careful of what goes into a country, but also what goes out of it.

"The new countries are having trouble to find themselves, because they are not politically-minded, and are individualists in the extreme. Poland, for the last hundred years, has been subordinate to other governments, and consequently has found it hard to establish a republican form of government.

Work for Education

"The restoration of Finland has led to the re-establishment of the ancient University of Helsingfors; Esthonia has taken over the famous Russian University of Dorpat as a national University; the University of Latvia, with all conceivable faculties from arts to agriculture and education, has been developed from the old Polytechnic Institute of Riga; the Lithuanians, failing to secure Vilva with its venerable Russian University and great library, have begun to build a national University at Rovno; Poland has made the University at Warsaw a national University, and reorganized the universities at Posen, Cracow and Leinberg as state universities. Czecho-Slovakia has strengthened the University of Prague and made it a national university, and at the same time recognized or established universities in Prague for Russian or German elements of the population. Hence, Prague today is the greatest university center in the world with approximately 30,000 university students, while state universities have been established at Bruno for the education of the Czecho, and at Bratislava for the Slovacks. The University of Belgrade in Serbia is now rising on a beautiful new site with a magnificent new library building as the center, built from Carnegie funds; and finally, little Albania, after being under Turkish control for about 500 years and having had no national system of schools beyond the fifth grade, is now building the Albanian Vocational School, the teachers being temporarily supplied by the Junior American Red Cross.

Know M. U. Yell

"The English language is being taught in the Albanian schools. Several American teachers are in charge of this work. Eight months, after the boys has started studying English, they could carry on conversations, debate and orate in English. One day, they wanted to learn a college yell and I taught them the 'Hurray, Hurrah, Mizzou, Mizzou'—the Varsity yell at the University of Missouri. Before long, they were giving this yell on all important occasions. Upon the coming of a new instructor from America, they assembled in the court yard and greeted him with the University of Missouri yell.

"The new Albania school gives them a greater faith in their government, and a more fervent love for America.

"In the field of elementary and secondary education, too, there is stirring a new spirit in these new or reorganized nations, and in this connection, the Junior American Red Cross has paved the way for better things. "The purpose of the Junior American Red Cross, which is represented in forty-two countries of the world, is to develop an ideal of service to humanity at large, and of promoting international good will.

Having gone to Europe to extend relief to school children in ways not open to the relief organizations of America, it has remained up to date to assist in the organization of Junior Red Cross socities throughout Europe and to preach and illustrate the ideal of service to country and of international good will.

Masses are Grateful

"Whether the officials of these new countries are duly grateful for American philanthrophy, I am not prepared to state; but there can be no question of the gratitude of the masses and particularly of the school children who crave new information about American schools and school children, and who under American inspiration are learning to think internationally, and to dream of more cordial international relations than their national history reveals.

"Regarding the future of soviet Russia, I have talked with a leading Russian thinker and he told me that this great Slavic nation would never return to the old imperialistic form of government, but would some day form a new United States of Russia to protect the smaller, new nations surrounding it.

Red Cross Means Progress

"Incidentally, the work of the Junior American Red Cross in European schools has been responsible for the introduction of a more progressive spirit into school work generally, and drudgery is giving place to appreciation and co-operation and the ideal of service. The Albanian Vocational School is one of the most cheerful institutions in the world, and the boys who are now being trained there by American and native teachers will display a national conscience and a loyalty heretofore unknown since the educated classes have received their education above the fifth grade in the institutions of foreign nations and have been pro-English or pro-German, but never whole-heartedly Albanian.

"The inflation of currency has greatly affected the men and women living on fixed incomes such as the school teachers, the ministers, the ones receiving pensions from the government and others of certain definite incomes. However, the workingman or woman who is making a wage can cause a rise in these returns which correspond to the inflation of the inflated finances of the country. It is not the laboring man or woman who has suffered most from the chaos of Europe.

"Altogether, the most hopeful thing about Central Europe today is its educational activity; bringing in new educational ideals and reform of the school curriculum."

"The future peace of the world depends upon the education of the young. If we could unite all students of the world into one great organization to bring about world peace, something for the good of mankind would result.

"We must not leave Europe alone, but should sympathize with her in her troubles and aid her in the solution of her problems.

"You, who are going out into the world as teachers will have a molding influence upon a youth, teeming with enthusiasm, a youth, overflowing with ambition, and a youth, alive to new ideals of a greater humanity."

Nickel Plate Juniors Lose to W. End Sluggers

(By one of the boys).

The West End Sluggers played the Nickel Plate Juniors on the Nickel Plate diamond yesterday afternoon and beat the Nickel Plates 38 to 28 in one of the games of the series.

Three games have now been played and two more games remain to be played. Throughout the game there existed much rivalry and the game was a regular pitchers' battle. The Nickel Plates had to change pitchers several times. The Sluggers' pitcher fanned nine men and the Nickel Plates pitcher fanned seven.

The line-ups: Nickel Plate Juniors—John Henry Heath, catcher; Junior Curnutt, pitcher; Bohm Townsend, first base; Murrel Cline, second base. Sluggers—Emmett Kenney, catcher; Irwin Bartram, pitcher; Kurby Bovard, first base; Billy Garrett, second base.
